Birthday Celebrations

Help Someone Feel Celebrated and Remembered on their Special Day

In a world where so many milestones go unnoticed, birthdays can be an opportunity to spread joy and remind others that they matter. By making cards or decorations, assembling birthday boxes, baking cakes, or hosting celebrations, you can create a ripple effect of kindness to ensure that someone feels valued and remembered on their special day, something many take for granted.

Remember to follow your school's guidelines when sending or delivering items. Use only your school's return address (not a personal one), your first name only when signing, and no personal contact information.

1. The Birthday Party Project

Purpose: Monthly birthday parties at homeless and transitional living facilities across the U.S., serving children experiencing homelessness.

3. Local Food Pantry

Purpose: Many food pantries accept "birthday boxes" with cake supplies, paper goods, and decorations for families facing food insecurity

Club Project Ideas:

- Create and decorate birthday boxes
- Drop them off for distribution to families in need.

Birthday Cake Box

- 9x13 disposable aluminum foil pan – Get the ones with the lids. It packages it all up neatly.
- Birthday Candles..
- A box of cake mix, any flavor you like.
- A can of Sprite or other lemon lime soda

Add a note: "Use soda in cake mix as a simple substitute for eggs, oil, and water. Combine one box of cake mix with one 12-ounce can of soda."
